FOREWORD

Soon after the Bihar movement gained in momentum we at this Institute were conscious not only of its immediate importance but also of its ultimate significance in the history of the nation. While one of the Research Fellows undertook a study of some aspects of the movement, Dr. Fazal-e-Rab became interested in preparing a bibliography of all the references to the movement in the current newspapers and periodicals. With the passage of time the literature on the movement grew enormously in volume and it is to Dr. Rab's credit that he kept track of all of them for over more than a year. The author has listed 3198 items appearing in 41 newspapers and periodicals. Of these 2390 are distinct items and the rest include editorials and some pieces which have been listed more than once in different sections.

Part I of the work deals with the main events classified in nine phases. The arrangement is strictly chronological. Part II of the bibliography contains comments and analysis in the form of editorials or long articles. These have been arranged separately authorwise as well as subjectwise.

I hope Dr. Rab will follow up this work by including other developments in the emergency and the post-emergency period.

INTRODUCTION

The first part of the book is devoted to a general survey of the history of the subject. It begins with a brief account of the early attempts to explain the phenomena of life, and then proceeds to a more detailed examination of the various theories which have been advanced from time to time. The author then discusses the progress of the science of life, and the various methods which have been employed to study it. He then proceeds to a discussion of the various branches of the science of life, and the various problems which are still to be solved. The book is written in a clear and concise style, and is well illustrated with numerous diagrams and figures. It is a valuable work for all those who are interested in the history and progress of the science of life.

The second part of the book is devoted to a detailed examination of the various theories which have been advanced from time to time. The author discusses the merits and demerits of each theory, and then proceeds to a comparison of the various theories. He then discusses the progress of the science of life, and the various methods which have been employed to study it. The book is written in a clear and concise style, and is well illustrated with numerous diagrams and figures. It is a valuable work for all those who are interested in the history and progress of the science of life.

The third part of the book is devoted to a detailed examination of the various theories which have been advanced from time to time. The author discusses the merits and demerits of each theory, and then proceeds to a comparison of the various theories. He then discusses the progress of the science of life, and the various methods which have been employed to study it. The book is written in a clear and concise style, and is well illustrated with numerous diagrams and figures. PREFACE

The worsening economic and political crises and corruption in Bihar, as elsewhere in India, gave rise to mass discontent on an extensive scale. Initially the students and youths articulated popular feelings and spearheaded attack against the Establishment. But political protest was unorganised, and sporadic violence was bound to ensue. A nation felt indignant over this moral collapse, but it was given only to Shri Jayaprakash Narayan to voice the public sentiment.

The present bibliography is a modest attempt to help research workers browse through the maze of micro-literature dealing with the various dimensions of JP's movement. Every bibliographical work has its limitations from the point of view of coverage. However, I have tried to index every document known to me published during the period from February '74 to April, 1977, till the formation of the Janata Government. For the facility of organisation of material the work has been divided into two volumes. Volume I deals with the pre-emergency phase and volume II will cover post-emergency material upto the formation of the Janata Party.

I am highly grateful to Prof. Sachchidananda, Director, A.N.S. Institute of Social Studies, Patna who not only gave valuable suggestions for the improvement of the work, but also wrote foreword for it. Thanks are also due to Mr. R.N. Maharaj, Deputy Director, National Labour Institute, New Delhi for the constant encouragement during my work. I am also thankful to my colleagues Sarva Shri M. Mahfil Ansari, Ram Bali Singh, Rajesh Kumar Verma, R.N. Dubey and K. Thakur for their assistance and cooperation in compiling this bibliography. I must also thank my wife Seemen for help in comparing the typed manuscript.

HOW TO USE THIS BIBLIOGRAPHY

This bibliography contains two parts i.e., part I deals with the 'events in progress' based on widely circulated local newspapers of Bihar (The Indian Nation, The Searchlight); part II gives information about comments and analyses published in different newspapers, journals and other serials of national and international repute.

In part I the entries have been arranged chronologically, whereas in part II, the entries have been arranged alphabetically on the dictionary pattern both under author and subject headings. For example, the entries have been made under subject headings like Anarchy, Dissolution, Mass Movement, Violence etc.

Each entry contains the information like the title of the article, the name of the author (if there is any), the abbreviated title of the journal, volume, issue number, page number etc. 'See' reference indicates that entries have been listed under the subject heading to which the reference has been drawn.
